Three important Eco-Justice options from the Eco-Justice Working Unit

A. Mon. Jan. 18,5-6:30pm A national UCC call to lift up resources available and plan how to support each other in communities of faith, networks, and regions, to take up these resources and build local initiatives for climate action. Link to register:
https://united-church.zoom.us/j/98899463295?pwd=NG55MzBkSmxYT3E2cGdVOS83Rmo4dz09
B. The ecumenical For The Love of Creation is a great opportunity to build climate justice leaders in our churches and contribute to ecumenical push for climate conversations, theological reflection and advocacy.
C. United Church people are invited to join Anglican Diocese of NS/PEI Environmental Network (DEN) Zoom calls on various topics that you may attend, as interested. nspeidiocese.ca/den The next call is Thurs. Jan. 14th, 7pm on Ecological Citizenship with Anne Marie Dalton.
https://zoom.us/j/94396015448?pwd=Um9XYndEbGIvWnpZdFBkNmtUSEZmdz09 Also a new DEN group begins Mon. Jan. 18th Ecological Grief,"Are you experiencing ecological grief…once in a while, once or twice a month or a week, every day? Maybe you don't feel ecological grief yourself, but you are concerned about someone who does? If ecological grief is becoming part of your life, directly and/or indirectly, this support group is for you. You are not alone." In January, Nancy Blair will focus on new language that helps us to understand and explain our grief to ourselves and others. If you want to talk, there will be time for discussion; if you want to be silent and listen, that is fine as well." Nancy Blairis a Registered Counselling Therapist in Nova Scotia.